DEATH PENALTY APPLICATION AND CONDITIONS OF DETENTION OF DEATH ROW PRISONERS

THE CONDITIONS OF DETENTION OF DEATH ROW PRISONERS

Despite a moratorium on executions issued in July 2018, the courts are still issuing death sentences. The number of individuals on death row continued to grow between 2018 to 2021. During a parliamentary inquiry in June 2020, the Prison Department stated that Malaysian prisons were detaining 1,314 prisoners sentenced to death, an increase of 33 when compared to October 2018 (1,281 individuals were reported to be on death row by the government at that time).

The Malaysian prison system was designed to host up to 52,000 prisoners. However, in September 2020, the Senate (Dewan Negara) informed by a written statement that Malaysian prisons were hosting 68,730 prisoners. Overcrowding has resulted in a lack of access to health care, a decrease in quality and quantity of food, and a shortage of hygienic products available free of charge (soap, sanitary towels, etc).

Prisoners sentenced to death are managed by the ‘Radical Prisoners Detainee @ High Risk’ unit within the Prison Department.

Malaysian law holds prisoners sentenced to death in a state of prolonged solitary confinement. Such detention conditions and treatment have been qualified as degrading and inhumane, if not tantamount to torture, by both the United Nations Human Rights Committee and the UN Special Rapporteur on torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. Furthermore, unlike other prisoners, those sentenced to death are not allowed to work which complicates the purchase of food, hygiene products, or telecommunication items such as phone cards without outside assistance. They are also not permitted to engage in the usual activities afforded to other prisoners such as pursuing further education and vocational trainings.

Prisoners sentenced to death are kept in separate single cells under the constant watch of the prison wardens. The facilities afforded are often limited with toilets located within sight and poorly lit cells which are damaging prisoners’ visual acuity. Prisoners stay 23 hours a day in their cells. Relatives may either visit them 45 minutes once a week or address them a letter; they are not allowed to do both. In some facilities, prisoners spend their regulatory 45 minutes outdoor time in a hall, foregoing the fresh air they may receive from outdoor activities. There is no activity besides some interventions from religious organisations.

Language barrier worsens the isolation of foreign prisoners, who represent 41% of those sentenced to death: discussions with religious interveners are often exclusively in Malay, and books in a foreign language are not allowed.
Conditions of detention cause some prisoners sentenced to death to suffer from "death row syndrome". Some expressions of this syndrome are repressed by prison staff: a prisoner who makes noise or refuses to eat is at risk of being kept in a cell without daylight and with limited access to food for 21 days.

Clemency

In 2018, the Malaysian Prison Department notified that between 2007 and 2017, Pardons Board mitigated the sentence of 165 prisoners sentenced to death.

Article 42 of the Constitution, and Sections 300 and 301 of the Criminal Procedure Code provide some information on the clemency process. Requests for a pardon are filed to a Pardons Board for advice. On this advice, the King "has power to grant pardons, reprieves and respites in respect of all offences which have been tried by court-martial and all offences committed in the Federal Territories of Kuala Lumpur, Labuan and Putrajaya". The Ruler of a State has power to grant pardons in respect of all other offences committed in his State.

Besides these indications, there is no other law or regulation describing clemency application process. There is no legal deadline for hearing a request for pardon, and a Pardons Board may not convene for years.

Prisoners sentenced to death often wait for clemency decision for upwards of 10 to 12 years with cases where detainees were reported to have spent 27 years in detention prior to clemency. From the pre-trial custody, the entire criminal procedure may last up to a decade with the initial trial phase at the court of first instances taking up to 5 years or more.

Many prisoners sentenced to death are unaware of the existence of a procedure of pardon. This occurs despite Prison Regulations 2000 provides for automatic clemency application process for prisoners serving more than 7 years imprisonment. After application for clemency, some do not know the progress of their application and whether it was successful or denied.

For those who do not speak Malay natively, they do not necessarily have access to a translator or a lawyer (they are not mandatory after the trial phase), and may be forced to send their requests in a language that would not be understood by members of a Pardons Board.

Overall, Malaysian law provides death penalty for 32 offences, 12 of these are mandatory. Many of these offences have no element of intentional killing, thus cannot be punished by death in accordance with international human rights law.
The applicability of Article 5, first paragraph, 2nd-ly is limited such that the capital punishment cannot be imposed upon an act which the capital punishment is not provided for by the law of the country where the act has been committed.

Whoever, by any means, directly or indirectly, commits a terrorist act shall be punished— (a) if the act results in death, with death; and (b) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Whoever intentionally directs the activities of a terrorist group shall be punished— (a) if the act results in death, with death; and (b) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Whoever, by any means, directly or indirectly, provides or collects or makes available any property intending, knowing or having reasonable grounds to believe that the property will be used, in whole or in part, to commit a terrorist act shall be punished— (a) if the act results in death, with death; and (b) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Whoever, directly or indirectly, provides or makes available financial services or facilities— (a) intending that the services or facilities be used, or knowing or having reasonable grounds to believe that the services or facilities will be used, in whole or in part, for the purpose of committing or facilitating the commission of a terrorist act, or for the purpose of benefiting any person who is committing or facilitating the commission of a terrorist act; or (b) knowing or having reasonable grounds to believe that, in whole or in part, the services or facilities will be used by or will benefit any terrorist, terrorist entity or terrorist group, shall be punished— (aa) if the act results in death, with death; and (bb) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine. (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), “financial services or facilities” includes the services and facilities offered by lawyers and accountants acting as nominees or agents for their clients.

Whoever accepts gratification to facilitate or enable any organized criminal activity shall be punished— (a) if the act results in death, with death; and (b) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Whoever accepts gratification to facilitate or enable any organized criminal activity shall be punished— (aa) if the act results in death, with death; and (bb) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Whoever gives or fabricates false evidence, intending thereby to cause, or knowing it to be likely that he will thereby cause, any person to be convicted of an offence which is capital by the law for the time being in force in Malaysia, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twenty years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if an innocent person is convicted and executed in consequence of such false evidence, the person who gives such false evidence shall be punished either with death or the punishment hereinbefore described.

Whoever commits murder shall be punished with death.

Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person in order that such person may be murdered, or may be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered, shall be punished with death or imprisonment for a term which may extend to thirty years and shall, if he is not sentenced to death, also be liable to whipping.

Article 374-A

Whoever seizes or detains and threatens to kill, to injure or to continue to detain another person ("the hostage") to compel the Government of Malaysia or the Government of any State in Malaysia, any other government, or any international organization or any other person or group of persons to do or refrain from doing any act as an explicit or implicit condition for the release of the hostage shall be punished—(a) if the act results in death, with death; and (b) in any other case, with imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years but not exceeding thirty years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Article 376 (4)

Whoever whilst committing or attempting to commit rape causes the death of the woman on whom the rape is committed or attempted shall be punished with death or imprisonment for a term of not less than fifteen years and not more than thirty years, and shall also be punished with whipping of not less than ten strokes.

Article 396

If any one of two or more persons, who are conjointly committing gang-robbery, commits murder in so committing gang-robbery, every one of those persons shall be punished with death or imprisonment for a term which may extend to thirty years, and, where the punishment is not death, shall also be liable to whipping.

Article 88

(1) Every person subject to service law under this Act who commits a civil offence whether in Malaysia or elsewhere shall be guilty of an offence against this section. (2) In this Act the expression “civil offence” means any act or omission punishable by the law of the Federation or which, if committed in Malaysia, would be punishable by that law; and in this Act the expression “the corresponding civil offence” means the civil offence the commission of which constitutes an offence against this section. (3) A person convicted by court-martial of an offence against this section shall—(a) if the corresponding civil offence is treason be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (b) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (c) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (d) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (e) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (f) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (g) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (h) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (i) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (j) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (k) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (l) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (m) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (n) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (o) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (p) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (q) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (r) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (s) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (t) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (u) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (v) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (w) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (x) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (y) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act; (z) if the corresponding civil offence is murder be liable to suffer death or any other punishment provided by this Act.
THE ARMS ACT, 1960

Article 14 (1) Any person who manufactures an arm or ammunition— (a) without a valid licence granted under section 12; or (b) in contravention of any condition imposed under paragraph 12(2)(a), shall, on conviction, be liable to punishment with— (i) death; or (ii) imprisonment for life and whipping with not less than six strokes, and, in the case of a company, firm, society or body of persons, with a fine not exceeding five hundred thousand ringgit.

THE DANGEROUS DRUG ACT, 1952

Article 39-B (1) No person shall, on his own behalf or on behalf of any other person, whether or not such other person is in Malaysia— (a) traffic in a dangerous drug; (b) offer to traffic in a dangerous drug; or (c) do or offer to do an act preparatory to or for the purpose of trafficking in a dangerous drug. (2) Any person who contravenes any of the provisions of subsection (1) shall be guilty of an offence against this Act and shall be punished on conviction with death or imprisonment for life and shall, if he is not sentenced to death, be punished with whipping of not less than fifteen strokes.

THE FIREARMS (INCREASED PENALTIES) ACT, 1971

Article 3 Any person who at the time of his committing or attempting to commit or abetting the commission of a scheduled offence discharges a firearm with intent to cause death or hurt to any person, shall be punished with death.

Article 3-A Where, with intent to cause death or hurt to any person, a firearm is discharged by any person at the time of his committing or attempting to commit or abetting the commission of a scheduled offence, each of his accomplices in respect of the offence present at the scene of the commission or attempted commission or abetment thereof who may reasonably be presumed to have known that such person was carrying or had in his possession or under his custody or control the firearm shall, notwithstanding that no hurt is caused thereby, be punished with death.

Article 7 (1) Any person trafficking in firearms shall be punished with— (a) death; or (b) imprisonment for life and with whipping with not less than six strokes. (2) Any person proved to be in unlawful possession of more than two firearms shall be presumed to be trafficking in firearms.

THE WATER SERVICES INDUSTRY ACT, 2006

Article 121 (1) A person who contaminates or causes to be contaminated any watercourse or the water supply system or any part of the watercourse or water supply system with any substance— (a) with the intention to cause death; (b) with the knowledge that he is likely to cause death; or (c) which would likely endanger the life of any person, commits an offence. (2) A person found guilty of an offence under subsection (1), on conviction— (a) where death is the result of the act, shall be punished with death or imprisonment for a term which may extend to twenty years, and where the punishment is not death, he shall also be liable to whipping.

THE KIDNAPPING ACT, 1961

Article 3 Whoever, with intent to hold any person for ransom, abducts or wrongfully confines or wrongfully restrains such person shall be guilty of an offence and shall be punished on conviction with death or imprisonment for life and shall, if he is not sentenced to death, also be liable to whipping.

THE STRATEGIC TRADE ACT, 2010

Article 9 (1) No person shall export, tranship or bring in transit strategic items unless he obtains a permit issued under this Act. (2) No person shall export, tranship or bring in transit strategic items or unlisted items to a restricted end-user specified in subsection 8(1) unless he obtains a special permit issued under this Act. (3) No person shall export, tranship or bring in transit strategic items or unlisted items to a prohibited end-user specified in subsection 8(2). (4) A person who contravenes subsection (1) commits an offence and shall, on conviction— (a) in relation to strategic items which are arms or related material— (i) where the act is done with the intent to unlawfully export, tranship or bring in transit such strategic items without a permit or with knowledge that the export, transhipment or bringing in transit of such strategic items without a permit is unlawful— (A) where death is the result of the act, be punished with death or imprisonment for natural life, and in the case of a body corporate, be punished with a minimum fine of thirty million ringgit; or (B) (5) A person who contravenes subsection (2) commits an offence and shall, on conviction— (a) in relation to strategic items or unlisted items which are arms or related material— (i) where the act is done with the intent to unlawfully export, tranship or bring in transit such items without a special permit or with knowledge that the export, transhipment or bringing in transit of such items without a special permit is unlawful— (A) where death is the result of the act, be punished with death or imprisonment for natural life, and in the case of a body corporate, be punished with a minimum fine of thirty million ringgit; [...]
(6) A person who contravenes subsection (3) commits an offence and shall, on conviction— (a) in relation to strategic items or unlisted items which are arms or related material— (i) where the act is done with the intent to unlawfully export, tranship or bring in transit such items or with knowledge that the export, transhipment or bringing in transit of such items is unlawful— (A) where death is the result of the act, be punished with death or imprisonment for natural life, and in the case of a body corporate, be punished with a minimum fine of thirty million ringgit; [...]

Article 10

Among the 184 accepted recommendations in 2018 during cycle 3, 37 were partially accepted, including 5 recommendations related to the death penalty (cf. following page for more details). During cycle 2 in 2013, on a total of 150 accepted recommendations, only 15 were partially accepted, including 3 concerning the death penalty. These recommendations aimed to accelerate the abolition process (n°105 and 107 prescribed a public consultation to find an alternative to the death penalty) as well as restraining the scope of application of the death penalty (n°116 advocated for the abolition of the death penalty for minors and drug dealers). Malaysia explained it would adjudicate after the Office of the Prosecutor finishes its detailed study on the death penalty, by the end of 2014. Malaysia also recalled that the death penalty for drug dealers was legal.
In 2013, Malaysia received 22 recommendations relating to the death penalty. One of them was from Egypt and advocated for the retention of the death penalty, urging Malaysia to “Maintain its good example in observing the legal safeguards surrounding the application of death penalty”. The number of recommendations slightly dropped in 2018. In 2018, when many 2013 recommendations urged to limit the scope of application of the death penalty, States were more willing to ask Malaysia to accelerate the abolition process, in accordance with the earlier statement made by the Malaysian government. During these two periodic reviews, States emphasized on the urgency to establish a moratorium on executions.
